Book Club Questions

- Pip and Evelyn are both desperate to escape their hometown. Why do you think that is? Is the grass always greener somewhere else?
- Pip reinvents herself in London, even going so far as to change her name. Do you think people can change as much as they might want to? What about those that knew them before? How do they fit in?
- Evelyn lands her dream job, only to have to give it up again. How do you think things might have been different if the same situation had happened forty years later?
- Jez and Pip have a special bond based the fact that they grew up together. Do the friends we make as teenagers always know us the best?
- Pip cannot understand why Evelyn chooses not to pursue MacMillan for his crime. Can you?
- When the mother of the boy Pip kills forgives her, it releases something in Pip which enables her to move forward. How important do you feel forgiveness is in the healing process?
